

Kiwa UK Group Use of Pictogram Policy

Congratulations on achieving your Kiwa certificate. You can demonstrate certification by Kiwa both by showing your clients the Kiwa certificate itself, and also by using the Kiwa pictogram, which has been created to be specific to the type of certification you have been awarded. You may use this pictogram on your print work, correspondence, and in your advertising.

When displaying the Kiwa pictogram, please follow these guidelines.

The use of the pictogram is only permitted:

By you as a certificate holder, and by suppliers stated on the certificate; parties not specifically stated on the certificate may not use the pictogram;

In relation to the product or service that has been certified. The pictogram must not be used to imply that other subjects are certified;

For the period of validity of the certificate. During a period of suspension of the certificate, the pictogram must not be used.

When the pictogram refers to a certified process, or a certified management system, you may not, under any circumstances, apply the pictogram to products you supply.

Design

Pictograms may only be depicted as a whole, in the height / width ratio as provided by Kiwa;

It is not permitted to display only part of the pictogram. Additions are also not permitted.

Images must be applied to a white or transparent background

The pictogram must be depicted in black and white. Instead of black, you may also use 'Kiwa blue' (RAL 5017 or Pantone 300). Other colours are not permitted.

In order to ensure legibility, the minimum width of the image is 1.5 cm.
